“ The first thing I remember about “Cathy’s mom” was her smile. I was very young and still understood in my heart that it was genuine. She was happy to see you and of course she wanted to feed you. The Colasanti house smelled like heaven and felt like a hug. I never forgot that. As an adult I was excited for her to meet my Italian husband. She seemed to like him and I felt to happy. When my own children brought home friends in their youth, I tried to emulate Mrs. Colasanti. I wanted every child to feel like I did when I visited a friends home. All this came through on that first smile. I was blessed to be Cathy’s friend and knowing her mom was a heavenly bonus.

“ I have great memories of your mother. There's one that stands out in my mind .I kept you out beyond your curfew ,she was waiting at the door for us when I dropped you off. She yelled at us both and I told Cathy I will never do that again. The next time I saw her, I kept apologizing for keeping her daughter out too late. She was the nicest ,kindest lady.

“ My boys recall "Grandma Susie" pinching their cheeks and giving them coins. She was a kind-hearted and hard working woman who loved her family. We will miss her warm smile and generous spirit. Rest in peace, Grandma Susie.

“ “Little mama”, as we so lovingly called her, will be deeply missed. Everyone that came in contact with her, instantly, fell in love with her. She was the sunshine in my day. You will forever have a piece of my heart. I love you, “little mama” ❤️ Until we meet again.
