“ I’m still struggling to find the words to share here because I’m still in disbelief. You were the cutest little blue eyed baby who loveddd to pull my glasses off my face and tug on my earrings haha. Then you grew to be the funniest little toddler and little boy who would snuggle up to a movie as long as I made you and your sister a big bowl of popcorn with LOTS of butter (a boy after my own heart). As we all grew older, family events were the most fun as long as you, Kelsi and Lauren were there. You grew to be such a handsome man, a free spirit and a gentle soul who was always so easy to just chat with. Love you so much, Nic.

“ Nick, I still can't believe that you are gone. I know that you are in a better place and I look forward to seeing you again one day. The memories we shared together I will never forget. The family parties, the days on the water, and randomly stumbling into you around town. You brought joy to everyone you met and made every day better with your positivity and thoughtfulness. You may be gone but I know that you will never be forgotten and you always have a place in my heart buddy. God will take good care of you. Rest on my friend

“ Nic, you've been one of my closest friends since we met in junior high. I've shared countless memories with you, and there's not a single one I'd trade for anything in the world. I'll never forget our jokes, our endless adventures, or the support you gave me through rough times. You were always a great motivator, a constant source of laughter, and just a genuinely wonderful person to spend time with. You were like a brother to me, and I loved you as if we were family. I'll always miss you buddy, until we meet again.
