“ I very much enjoyed working with Dante; we started the same week at Rightpoint. He was very effective finding solutions when working on some challenging projects.

In our conversations, his warmth, his love for his children and his sense of humor always came through.

May his memory be a blessing for you.

“ Dante was a really good guy. I first met him back in 2003 when he auditioned for a feature film I was making with some friends. We cast him in a role and he showed up the entire production and also to the premiere of the film at the old Royal Oak Main Art theater.

We would stay in contact over the years, mostly online. Years later we got together again around 2010-2011 to work on this crazy website project I had in mind. Every week the two of us would meet up at the local Tim Hortons/Wendy's and with our laptops we would work for a few hours trying to build this website. After about a year we called it quits. Life had gotten complicated and we couldn't go any further with the project. More than anything I enjoyed spending time with him every week, just being friends. Which ultimately is the best thing that came out of that.

It's been a few years since I last talked to him. Which as far as I remember, we met up so I could buy a photo tripod head off of him. But that has been a while and we haven't seen each other since, for no real reason other than life just took us in different directions. Although I had hoped that at some point we could meet up again.

I will miss you Dante. I hope the best for your family. You were always a solid guy with a great sense of humor, intelligence, artistic passion, and a willingness to help out. The times we spent together were meaningful and we had some good laughs and great conversations. Be at peace good sir.

“ I remember meeting Dante for the first time at Rightpoint and his smile when he greeted me. I could tell right away that he had a unique personality that made those around him realize that he cared about them and what he was doing. He was very smart, hardworking, and creative.

One of my favorite Dante moments was when he shared his "unboxing" of a robot that he was going to develop some software for one of our clients. He was funny and open and authentic. It really helped me and our team feel connected even while we were working from home.

He was one of a kind and will be missed by the Rightpoint team. Our thoughts and prayers go out to to his family and friends.

“ I've worked with Dante at Rightpoint for the past couple years. He was a very smart developer with superpowers in figuring out how to make things work. I'll always remember his video with spot the robot dog as showing off his great personality and humor. He will dearly be missed by the Rightpoint family.

“ I'm so sorry to hear this, my deepest condolences to you all for your loss. I only worked with Dante very briefly and fleetingly in the time I knew him, but in that brief time his love for his family was immediately and always apparent. He will be dearly missed.

No one ever really dies as long as they are loved.

“ I am so sad to hear about Dante and my heart goes out to his family. I worked with Dante at Rightpoint on two projects and literally talked to him on a day to day basis. We became friends over that time, even though our views on politics clashed we were able to ignore that and talk about photography, mine was astrophotography and his was landscapes and people. Our last conversation was about "nerding ou"t about up-rezzing a 6MP image to 29MP with 80% compression. So yeah were nerded together. Gonna miss those conversations and miss his unique views on life, love and politics. See you again my friend and I will always remember you.

“Dante was a wonderful gentle soul. We meet almost 20 years ago when I was working at the local coffee shop where he was a regular. We developed a close friendship and he was someone I could confide in when I was going through a difficult time. We have lost touch over the years, but I know how much he loved his family especially his children. My thoughts are with you all right now.

“I worked with Dante while at NAB. The stories he would tell about his kids and his interests really showed his love and passions. We didn't always see eye-to-eye on things, but he was always willing to share his input and knowledge on a matter. He supported me so much in the time we worked together and gave me confidence when I needed it most. I do wish that we kept in touch better after he left there, but I did think about him many times over the years.
