“ We are saddened to learn of Angelo’s passing. He was a student who did 2 rotations with me And at DOH/BiCounty and went to be an obstetrician and gynecologist who cared for my daughter and delivered our granddaughter. He attended MSUCOM at the time my brother was a student. He was a prized member of the profession and the BC staff. Condolences on behalf of the entire Tobes family. Please pass this on to his family. We only now learned of his death.

“ I’m just finding this out now 😞 he was my mom’s obgyn when she was pregnant with me & then my obgyn since I was 18. He was such a sweet man who always made me feel comfortable. He truly cared about his patients. He’d hug me after appointments & I thought that was so sweet. My deepest condolences to his family.

“ After years of trying to get pregnant I finally was overjoyed and blessed to find out I was expecting. Dr. Stoyanovich shared the news that he was stopping delivering a month before my due date. He was so kind when I was going through fertility treatments that he recommended. The obgyn that I had to see wanted me to think about aborting her because they said she had health issues. I cried for days and my mom called him and he talked to me on the phone and calmed me down stating "God would not of had you wait this long for her to not have her anymore." Those words kept me calm and now she is a healthy 19 year old. Thank you Dr Stoyanovich for treating all your patients like family. He will be missed greatly. Wrapping his family in prayer and love during this difficult time. Catherine "Katie" (as he would call me) Mavros

*I am so sorry and sad to hear this. He was the best doctor, very, very good bedside manners. He was my doctor in 1983, I was seeing dr Tull at the time, after that I started to go to him. Actually my two sisters went to him, my niece , and then my daughter went to him. My daughter had a lot of female problems and he told us once, that when she's ready to have a baby he was going to quit delivering, we laughed. Well in August 2005, my daughter found out she was expecting, guess what he couldn't be her OB because he did stop delivering in March 2006, my granddaughter was born in April 2006. He will be greatly missed, thoughts and prayers to all.

“ Angelo was an amazing individual whose love for Judy and family knew no bounds.

Meeting both on a cruise years ago, we immediately became friends, and my wife, Sheri, found a sister to love.

Angelo was half of AA, Angelo & AI, and we laughed each time mentioning this. We may have been miles away, but both were always in our hearts and always will be.

We cherish our times cruising, when we visited them in Michigan, and having our martinis.

Rest in Peace Dear Friend, and May Your Memory Be A Blessing to Judy and all.

“When Angelo and I first met at Maples in seventh grade, our personal connection was immediate. I never imagined we would remain best friends punctuated with moments that matter for 60+ years, including: middle school dances with our own--not shared--first girlfriends; writing, directing and performing my first campaign skit as Angelo’s winning Maples mayoral campaign manager; Maples Football, establishing a closer, personal “connection,” playing center behind Angelo as QB; swim team practices at Ford Words pool, then on Fordson’s swim team; running together successfully as Fordson Class of ’68 president (Angelo) and vice president (Chuck); double-dating for our junior and senior year proms, riding in Spiro’s “full power” ’65 Olds 98 as Big Dawg wannabes; after-hours social gatherings with brother, Christ, and Macedonian relatives at Dr. Paul Peters’ podiatry office; spending endless hours in college libraries at Henry Ford College and University of Michigan, Ann Arbor’s Undergraduate Library, aka The UGLI (PRON; ugly); sharing an apartment as college roommates at Michigan during junior year; experiencing Michigan Football’s return to greatness under Coach Bo with countless games in the Big House—GO BLUE!; periodic, “checking-in” phone calls (pre-cellphone/ texting) during our graduate school years; standing up as best man at each other’s weddings; Angelo serving as godfather to my middle son, Phil; among other rights of passage to adult-/fatherhood and senior citizenship.

From those formative years at Maples until the last time Angelo and I were together--with deep gratitude to Judy for your loving care and making it happen!--in October, 2024, our connection was immediate and unbreakable. Despite the burden of Angelo’s illness, he whispered, “I love you,” We hugged one last time before he laid down for a much-needed rest.

As the brother I never had, Angelo always extended his receptive ear, reassuring voice and kind heart. While Angelo has left us, physically, the imprint of his humanity—inner strength, dignity; selflessness; wit; compassion; devotion to his patients; unconditional love for his family and friends—will endure. God bless you, my friend, with ineffable gratitude for the indelible, invaluable memories.

Love,

It is with great sadness that I learned of Angelo's passing. As adults we took different paths. But it is fair to say that we spent our childhoods together.

While not blood relatives, Sava would always refer to us as cousins and even "twins." I will always be grateful for being considered a part of the family.

We shared many great times. We taught ourselves to swim at the public pool accross from his house. We played little league together. Spiro would take us to Camp Dearborn where we played and swam until exhausted. He taught us to hang our swimsuits on the car antenna to dry on the way home.

As teenagers we joined the Church youth group where we learned to wash cars and flip pancakes. We formed a Macedonian dance group that twice performed at the State Fair bandshell. When Christ got his license we would cruise in Spiro's Oldsmobile, all three of us in the front bench seat sans seatbelts. After graduating high school we both found our way to the University of Michigan.

Memory eternal.

Dr. Stoy was my gyno starting at age 14 and I stayed with him until he retired. He was so calming and funny and made everyone who entered his office feel at home. I will never forget the birth of our first child, he came in and saw my husband in full beard and said we are a few hours away if you need to run home and shower etc. He came back cleanly shaven and was standing next to me when Angelo said, you should call your husband now and tell him to come back, we are almost ready. My husband laughed and said... I am right here. He almost fell over laughing. He said, Ok lets go then! Angelo will be missed by soo many. Prayers for the family!
