The highway marks the true nomad,
With the sun shining and the rumbling beneath the legs.

It marks the first ride,
The sun setting,

The air feeling infinite.

It makes the nomad feel,
The echo of motors thundering,
Going somewhere, but nowhere.

Each bend curving just the right way,
The horizon just before him,
Welcoming him with open arms.

Brothers surrounding him,
Formation inevitable,
The dark leather imprinted.

It marks the final ride,
A blissful destination,
The true nomads home.

You are INGORANT. Not something to post on an obituary. And certainly nothing to comment on when you know nothing about it.

“Dennis gave me great advice I have kept with me - If it's not my problem, it's not my problem. Over the years, that's helped me maintain perspective. Dennis was one of a kind!
Sheryl, we are so very sorry for your loss.”

“ Gary and I will never forget the times we have spent on our Harley’s riding to Sturgis. A requirement ...stopping at Butch and Sam’s, gassing up for a one or two beer stop, “authorized or unauthorized” and the many detours (which really meant being lost) we made along the way. Camping out at the “high landers or low landers “. Making our reservations for dinners in the name of “Alice” (who the ??). And the “Ford touring group”
All of our celebrations at Buddy’s in Dearborn cannot go unmentioned. These are just some of memories we will cherish forever.
We loved you dearly and will miss you always 🥹💔 Dennis you were truly one of a kind and are thankful to call you friend.
Sheryl your loss is so deeply felt. We are sending a warm embrace along with heartfelt sympathies your way.

“ I am saddened to learn of Derrnis's death. I first met him when my family invited him and Tim to a Czech Thanksgiving dinner at my mother-in-laws house in what now seems like eons ago. May he rest in Peace. My deepest condolences to his family. Dolores Hausch
