“ Garrett, I already miss you! I dont even think I can grasp the concept that you are gone. You are one of my longest friends, and we have shared sooo many memories some good and some bad. I am so blessed to have had the opportunity to have you in my life. I wish I was telling you this to your face right now, and not just typing it. I will forever have a heavy heart for your children, they couldnt have had a better dad. I know your in heaven watching over them everyday, and smiling and laughing with your mom! May God bless your soul. You were and always will be one of a kind. I love you

“ I miss you so much bro. I cannot even believe this to be true. I feel so sick inside, angry beyond belief. I am forever changed, and I pray that you are indeed in a better place. I will always remember you in the most positive ways, and try to be all that I can for your children, as you have done for mine. My heart goes out to them, including the one yet to be.

“ I knew Garrett for a little under a year. I work in the main office at work so I got to talk to him when he would come in to collect department sheets. I would always laugh so hard at him because he would be covered head to toe in paint and steel chips! Sometimes I couldnt even tell what color shirt he was wearing that day. On his way out he would always stop to talk to me about his beautiful kids and what he did with them over the weekend and how much they mean to him. On lunch breaks, sometimes I would see him at the Chinese restaurant around the corner. We would joke and laugh about our "secret" lunch dates cause I've mistakenly seen him up there on more than one occasion. Garrett was a fun loving, true gentleman, and he would make my day when I would see him! Rest in peace May you find peace and love in the memories you cherish.

“ Reading everyone's messages on Facebook or on here, he had so many best friends. He always made you feel like you had never been away from him even it were years that went by until the next time you saw him. I wish I were closer with Garrett because I did always feel good and happy with him. He lit up a room with his laugh or his smile. Now he will light up our skies and our world around us. I will miss your smile, your red hair, and your ability to make anyone feel special. I will be hoping time heals all wounds of your passing and your family and friends all find peace.

“ As I reflect on my life time of memories of Garrett and I see him through everyone else's eyes it just reminds me more and more of what he left us all with. Garrett, left us all with a sense that we were all the most important people in his life and he meant it. All of us were equal to him and he was just as happy to see "me" as he was to see "you". It takes a special kind of person to make everyone genuinely feel like he did. He loved deeply, truly and whole heartedly and I am beyond blessed to have had him in my life for so many years. He will always occupy a piece of me that will never be able to be filled my anyone else. I love you, Garrett. RIP, dear cousin. Forever in my heart, forever in my mind. I love you and I promise to share stories of how you made my world a better place, until the day we meet again. I promise I will do whatever I can for those who were loved by you and those who loved you.

“ When I think of Garrett I think of a friend to all. He was funny and had a great smile. Although it seems I have known him since before I was 5going yrs old, we were not ever very close. But his tragic and unexpected and definitely unfair departure from our lives doesn't still seem easy. I have shed my tears for his loving family and friends and his beautiful children. He will always have a special place in my heart as the goofy, kind and friendly guy he was. May you all find peace and joy in your memories of duch a wonderful man. I regret not knowing him better.
