“ As I shared at their 50th Wedding Anniversary party, a spark started between my sister and her husband in early 1967. That's how long I have known George Frederick Diehl.

It was not always rosy being in-laws. We had wonderful times, some shitty moments; many laughs and some tears, too. We shared a lot of friends, spent alot of time with family and had so many memories; I loved that crazy man my sister married and.I will miss him

The good news is his pain is gone now and I know he believed Jesus was his Savior, who died for his sins and rose again. Knowing George was a Christian gives me great peace and the wonderful knowledge that he is in heaven with so many of the same people that we loved on this earth.

“ Through the years, we shared many good times with George and Diane and even a trip to Colorado for Weippert’s 50th anniversary party in 2000. While there, six of us decided to rent a van for an overnight excursion to Leadville for a train ride and then on to the Royal Gorge the next day. On the second morning, George was driving, and very determined to keep us on schedule. We stopped for a “quick” cup of coffee (in George’s mind) at a restaurant in a small town. Diane had a different plan in mind when she ordered a more decadent breakfast of stuffed French Toast, which took longer to prepare. The rest of us followed suit with ordering breakfast, too. Needless to say, George was chomping at the bit with his coffee, while we enjoyed breakfast. After about an hour, we continued merrily on our way. Like a fine bottle of wine, George mellowed with age and didn’t care if we spent an hour at breakfast. He took fastidious care of his roses, cared for his mother, and fed and talked to the squirrels in his yard! We will truly miss you, George, but we look forward to a time when we will see you again!

“George and Diane and Jerry and I shared many good times from playing cards to holiday parties to family gatherings. But I'll always remember some of our boating memories as extra special.

Our marinas were about two miles apart, and we had fun meeting on the water or on each other's boats, Lady Di and Sell-a-brate. On one of Diane's Boston work trips, she flew back with live lobster which she and George cooked for a bunch of us. After dinner and drinks, we went dancing at Jack's Bay Lounge, a real dive with a muddy, dirt parking lot but within marina walking distance. We came back at 2 am to make coffee and Kahlua, a challenge with only one small boat coffeepot!

George, I'll miss making new memories with you for now, but I know you're in good company in your heavenly home. May your heavenly cards always be winners! And may you find a boat as solid as the Lady Di to navigate the heavenly waters.
