“ I remember when Loretta was a teenager and I was just a little girl. She was so petite and stylish. The style back then was “ big hair” , high heels and figure tight dresses... and Loretta could pull the “look off so well. She gave my sisters and I her old prom dresses and high heels to wear playing dress up. Loretta had such small feet that her heels fit me at 8 !!👠😭 I’d walk around in her old shoes and feel like Queen of the Prom.

I also loved the way she didn’t let her older brothers boss her around. ❤️ Loretta knew how to hold her ground! Sorgi women are strong people 😊

The last time I saw Loretta was at my Aunt Sylvia’s funeral. When we saw each other it was like no time had passed. She always had style. ❤️❤️❤️ I like to think that there was a big party waiting for her as she crossed over. Lots of wine, polenta... and shots of grappa ... and hugs from all the people she loved that have gone before her. I’ll never forget Loretta!❤️❤️
