“"To the man who first introduced me to Einstein's Theory of General Relativity, no combination of words can capture the loss the world has experienced upon your departure. You were an amazing person who not only had a kind soul, but a brilliant mind. You constantly challenged and inspired me, from debating about the concept of an infinite universe to what the best love story is. Although you will be missed, you will always live on with every theory I read about and every record I hear; I will remember you as one of the greats who not only helped shape my life into what it is, but so many other's as well. After all, things we lose have a way of coming back to us in the end, if not always in the way we expect. I hope that you are currently battling it out with all the other philosophers, because even minds as smart as theirs could learn a thing or two from you."
