“ I was very fond of Nick. He always had a story to tell to help better understand a situation; i LOVED that!

An angel on earth is what he was. Always had a smile on his face, full of life and energy!!

"I've learned that people will forget what you said, people will forget what you did, but people will never forget how you made them feel"

-Maya Angelou

Nick always made everyone feel special; everything they did was an important aspect of their life to make them who they are today.

Mistakes??--that's okay, get back up and do it ONE MORE TIME!!

I really miss you alot Nick, more than I ever thought I would. You taught me alot. Thank you!!

“ Nick was always the person you looked forward to seeing at practice; just waiting to hear a new story...or just his always smiling face :) I miss that. He didn't only influence me through the drumming world but through the real world. Even in a drum lesson, he would stop and tell me something useful-something completely off the topic of drumming. I remember my freshman year, I really didn't know Nick all that much yet, but I would hope and pray that he would work with the basses for that practice because he made everything feel okay. I feel I could go on and on about Nick because he was just that wonderful. I feel blessed to know him for as long as I did...although it was far too short. My heart and prayers go out to the Saputo family. Thank you Nick for everything you have taught me and for just being the mentor that I needed in my life. I love you and I miss you so much-you don't understand how hard it is to not have a "poopy face" in a time like this. I'm trying though. Rest in peace <3

“ I didn't know you Nick (personally) however, I did know the band kids you shared your talent with so unselfishly. They will always have your lessons to reflect on in thier adult years, and your influence to keep them smiling. As a parent, you only hope for people like yourself to become a part of your childs life and learning years....what lucky kids we have. As a Milford Band Parent I will always be grateful for your contribution to these amazing kids, and to your family I offer prayer and humble thoughts of a Son, Brother, Friend, and Muscian taken too early. Peace.
