“ Please accept my sincerest condolences for you and your family. One day some time from now you will find yourself paused in reflection. In that moment you will come to realize that your father lives on inside of you. It may be an expression of thought, or an activity you both shared. But you will smile and be grateful that he was who he was. And... that he loved you enough to share himself with you. Best wishes my friend. Warm Regards, Michael Spindelman
