“To my friend Vince. We can never know if you can see this message or not but hopefully you can. You helped me in so many ways in my gardens and yard. You especially liked moving large rocks, digging up gardens and planting grass seed. I think of all the traveling we did and especially the trip to the Grand Canyon. When you found out I'd never been there, you insisted on taking me. I think of the cruise we had planned but unfortunately we didn't get to take but you were more important than any cruise; I think of all the meals we shared. I hope that wherever you are you will have a boat to go fishing and all the ice cream you could ever want. Your friend, Carol”

“Dear Family and Friends of Vincent (Jim) Alongi, You must be proud of the kind of man who has now passed from us and leaves only the best kind of example and memories. Our parents were best friends and we were also friends from our birth. We shared happy times in childhood, an English Literature class at the University of Detroit, a son and a daughter, both of whom were named Lisa. In later years, there were great times we shared with Sara and Angie. You fished and gave generously from your bounty! When my nephew Mark passed away, you came to comfort me. Your life was truly an honorable one and the memory of the kind of person you were will never leave us. Now you live eternally in God's embrace and we are better persons for having known you. Sincerely, Ann Kearney”
